Such incredible pleasure/beaties are available to one who lives in the country and knows ^{who} how to receive/respond to the bounty of the earth! I have just now (11:45 A.M.) returned from a walk in the back meadow where I picked a large arm-full of black-eyed Susans. They are now in one of my Rebecca Colville vases — a pale blue one, about 9" high — on my ^{central} Sundoff-window table. Very beautiful — HCRP mentioned at one point that Aunt Jennie (Jane Martha Russell) was very fond of Black-eyed Susans, as in SRP. "Whenever Aunt Jennie came out here (McRussell Homestead)," said HCRP, "she always went out and picked a bouquet of wild flowers. She loved black-eyed Susans."

Went into town about 2:30 P.M.; checked the post office box & received a post card from Bill Weinstein in China — I have never received mail from anyone in the orient, curiously. It seems so incredibly remote, even though it is not.
A xerox copy of that post card will be pasted down here directly. Drove to Sugarman's and purchased a 33-quart porcelain Canning Kettle, which I will use to boil down maple syrup next spring; amazing over 8 gallons of sap in one Kettle — that will make my "sugaring down" easier and more focused. Cost of the Kettle — $22.88 + $1.38 tax = $24.26. Kettle made by General Housewares, Corp., Terre Haute, Indiana.
